Hi. . .

About an hour ago, I started writing the editor's letter, then, realizing I had an appointment, I leaped madly down the hall, leaving the begginning stages of my "letter" in the typewriter.

When I got back about an hour (ok two hours) later, I was overjoyed to find that Bruce, the TS correspondent had finished my work for me.

Bruce was still there,and had Christian (Monkee Mike's son) along. Before they left, I took some groovy (I hope) pix. We'll be printing them next issue, which is a real first for TS as they're the first color pix to ever appear of Christian.

Back to the editor's letter thingy. Would love to print what Bruce wrote, (it was something about the Great train robbery obviously being the work of thieves), but then I wouldn't have room for our annual invitation to come visit the TS offices.

We're located at 6425 Hollywood blvd., which is 2 blocks east of Vine St. and we'd really love to show you around our plush (oh, sure) suite of offices.

Just give us a call at HO. 6351l when you're in Hollywood and let us know when you'll arrive and how many friends, family, etc. If you don't have time to call, coom ahead (as they say in Liverpool).

And prepare yourselves. After a visit to TS, you may never be the same!

Luv and love,

J. M.

Teens ask Toni ...

Q. My boyfriend and I are taking a 50-mile (!) motorcycle trip to visit his folks at their summer cottage. Problem: How to repair "hairdo blowout"—(without resetting)?
K. S., Glencoe, Ill.

A. If we read you right—your hair's missing "that certain something." Body! It takes real, gen-u-wyne, permanent body to give your hairdo bounce-back shape. Keep you free from setting every hour on the hour! And know what? You can get this basic body in a Toni box! Try UNcurly Toni. See how it revs up languid locks into shape and body that last for months. Lets you vrooooom all over the summer scene...carefree! Because your gone-with-the-wind coif will comb right back into line! For a smooth 'do with pow-power, charge up your hair with basic body—à la UNcurly Toni.

Q. Any way to make my skimpy, ponytail hairdo look super for parties? G.W., Portland, Ore.

(ACTUAL SIZE)

A. Give it the brush—the new, teenie weenie Bikini Brush you get free with Self-Styling Adorn! This wee Bikini Brush teases hair in a great big way with itty bitty bristles. They smooth better, too: just skim the surface. And Bikini's tapered handle lifts your 'do to new style heights! As for making "skimpy" hair look thick—count on Adorn. Spray it into the teasing. This spray helps give hair bulk and body; a "more-hair" look. It's waterfree! Dries fast! Here's how Adorn and Adorn's Bikini Brush can make your ponytail party-posh!...

1. Divide ponytail in two. Spray each piece with Adorn. Waterfree Adorn sprays in body, helps hold hair as you tease.

2. Tease each half of ponytail with Bikini Brush. Be sure to hold hair taut while teasing.

3. With Bikini Brush, smooth each half over your hand to shape, smoothing downward toward your face. Finishing touch: Adorn—

4. Now, hide rubber band beneath bright ribbon and you're really in the "swim" with your new Disco-Do! (And it holds! Adorn is waterfree.)

Just one of six super do's you get, plus the teenie Bikini—free with Adorn!

Any questions about hair care? Write Carol Douglas, The Toni Company, Box 3600, Chicago, Illinois 60654. Include your complete name and address.

you asked

In this column we will try to answer every question you ask about any movie, TV or record star. If you have a question, send it to You Asked, Teen Screen, 6425 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood Calif. 90028. We cannot give you a personal answer by mail.

MONKEE ACCIDENT

Were any of the four Monkees in an accident recently and seriously hurt? Or is it just a rumor?

J.G.
Bloomville, Ohio

The above letter is only one of many we've been receiving concerning an accident involving Micky and Davy. Some of the letter writers even heard they were dead or paralyzed for life! But don't worry, all the Monkees are alive and well, and will continue to turn out their great show and records!

FANG'S FIRE

In the April edition of T.S. you included a color pic of Paul Revere and the Raiders. In this picture, was Fang holding a cigarette?

B.K.
Crowley, La.

Yes, he was.

BEATLE WRITTY

Could you please tell me when Paul and Jane will get married? Are the Beatles planning another album? When will they be in America? And where can I write directly to John?

E.N.
Alamagordo, N.M.

You might well arsk. Paul and Jane haven't set any date as yet. The Beatles have said they will make no more personal appearances, so if they come to America it will not be for concert purposes. Paul was here in April. They do, however, have a nine-year recording contract, so "Sargeant Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band" most certainly won't be their last album. Write to John at "Kentwood," Cavendish Rd., St. George's Hill, Weybridge, Surrey, England.

MICK AND MARIANNE

I just heard on the radio that Mick Jagger is going steady with Marianne Faithfull. I thought he was married and had a baby. What is the truth?

J.L.
Baltimore, Md.

Marianne is currently separated from her husband, and she and her 16 mo. old son are living in London. She and Mick have been steadily dating for several months.

FOURTH SUPREME

In the April issue there was a letter from Kenny White of Dayton, Ohio, asking about a fourth Supreme. There isn't one, just as you said. But Scott Regan, a D.J. for WKNR, Detroit, had a contest "Record a record with the Supremes" just before Christmas. It was never released, but given to the listeners of the station. This is probobly where the rumor got started.

Sue Jones
Detroit, Mich.

AVAILABLE ASSOCIATE

Would you please tell me if Russ Giguere of the Association is married or single? Where can I write to him?

K.F.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Russ is single, and may be contacted by writing to 1845 N. Canyon Dr., Los Angeles, Calif. 90028.

HERMIT SPLIT

Someone told me that Herman's Hermits broke up. Is this true? If it is please tell me why?

Bonnie Long
Clearfield, Pa.

Relax, Bonnie (and all other Hermaniacs), the Hermits are still together as a group.

MARRIED MONKEE

Is Mike Nesmith of the Monkees married? Some of the girls say that he is and some say he isn't. Which is the truth?

Sue Belaney
Pontiac, Mich.

Mike is the only married Monkee, and he and lovely wife Phyllis have a son Christian, who is two years old.

RAIKS PROGRESS

In the April TS Barbara Hinton asked about a group called "The Raiks Progress." They are Alan Shapazian, Steve Olson, Steve Krikorian and Nick Van Marth. Their record is "Sewer Rat Love Chant" b/w "Why Did You Rob the Tank?"

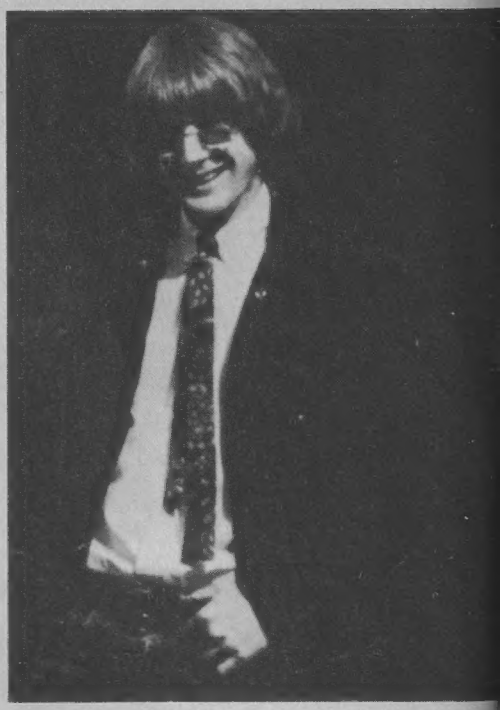
Lydia Priebe
Sanger, Calif.

ENGLISH BEATLES

I would like to know if there are any songs on the English Beatle albums "With the Beatles," "Please Please Me" and "Beatles for Sale" that aren't on any of the American albums or singles.

Eric Loy
Lewisburg, Ohio

All the songs on these three albums are available here.



Byrd Roger (Jim) McGuinn.

BYRD'S NEST

I've just read that Jim McGuinn of the Byrds is married and has a child. I'm just heartbroken, but I won't believe it until I hear from you. If it's true, who's the lucky girl?

C.F.
Albany, N.Y.

Yes, Jim is married, and he and wife Delores have one son.

BURT (ROBIN) WARD

What is the real story behind Burt Ward's divorce and then sudden wedding?

Linda Shaw
Glendale, Calif.

Unfortunately Burt and Bonnie's marriage didn't work out. All we can say is that we wish all concerned the best of luck, to including Burt and bride Kathy Kersh.

BOSS BEACH BOYS

The Beach Boys are my very favorite group. I like them very much and I try to get a lot of their records. Could you please tell me where I can write to them?

Clayton Hurlburt Jr.
Media, Pa.

Write to the Beach Boys at 27777 Silver Spur Rd., #219, Palos Verdes, Calif. 90274.

WHERE'S ELVIS

Would you please send me the ad-

does where Elvis Presley gets his fan mail? Also, how old is Elvis?

C.B.
Amarillo, Texas

Elvis is 32, and you can write him care of Box 417, Madison, Tennessee 37115.

REAL RAIDERS REPLY?

I want to send a letter to Paul Revere and the Raiders but if I send them a letter, how do I know that one of the Raiders will write to me, and not just someone hired to do the job?

David Briggs
Girard, Pa.

To answer David and everyone else who would like personal answers from their faves, you can get a special instruction sheet when you send for a Star Address Book. Send $1.00 to Official Star Address Book, 6425 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

GRASSROOTS' ROUTE

Could you please tell me where I can reach the Grassroots by mail?

Frieda Thompson
Winslow, Ariz.

Write to them at 321 S. Beverly Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

MICKY'S CHICKS

Would you please tell me what kind of girl Micky Dolenz prefers? What color hair, eyes and especially height does he go for?

R.W.
Wenham, Mass.

Micky only likes blondes, brunettes, redheads, and all shades in between! And being six feet tall, Micky prefers girls who aren't taller than he.

TONY DOW

Could you tell me if Tony Dow was ever in an accident? How old is he? Is he married?

Candy Sacram
Syracuse, N.Y.

As far as we know, Tony has never been in a serious accident, and is still single. He was born April 13, 1945.

LITTLE ANTHONY

I am crazy about Little Anthony of the Imperials. Where can I write to him?

Pauline C.
Bronx, N.Y.

Write to Anthony and the other Imperials c/o Phil Strassburg Assoc., 1841 Broadway, N.Y., N.Y. 10023.

TIME TRAVELER

Could you tell me if James Darren of "Time Tunnel" is married and has children? Does he live in California? Where can I write to him?

Louise Earle
Detroit, Mich.

Yes, Jim is married to former beauty queen Evy Nordlund and they have two sons. They all live here in Calif., and you can write to him c/o ABC-TV, Hollywood, Calif. 90027.

MORE ON MONKEES

Do the Monkees write their own music? Can Peter play the guitar?

M.Y.
Georgetown, Ohio

Several of the songs on each of the Monkees albums were written by Mike, and Peter not only plays the guitar, but worked in Greenwich Village and elsewhere as an accompanist and folk singer.

DAVY ON CASEY?

Could it be true that Monkee Davy Jones was once on "Ben Casey"? If so, was his hair long or short?

Fay Cohen
Brooklyn, N.Y.

Yes, Davy once played a glue-sniffing addict on a "Ben Casey" episode, and his hair was short at the time.

STONES ROLLING OFF?

After reading several different issues of magazines, I found out that Mick Jagger and Brian Jones were planning on leaving the Stones. Is this true?

John Poulson
Medford, Wis.

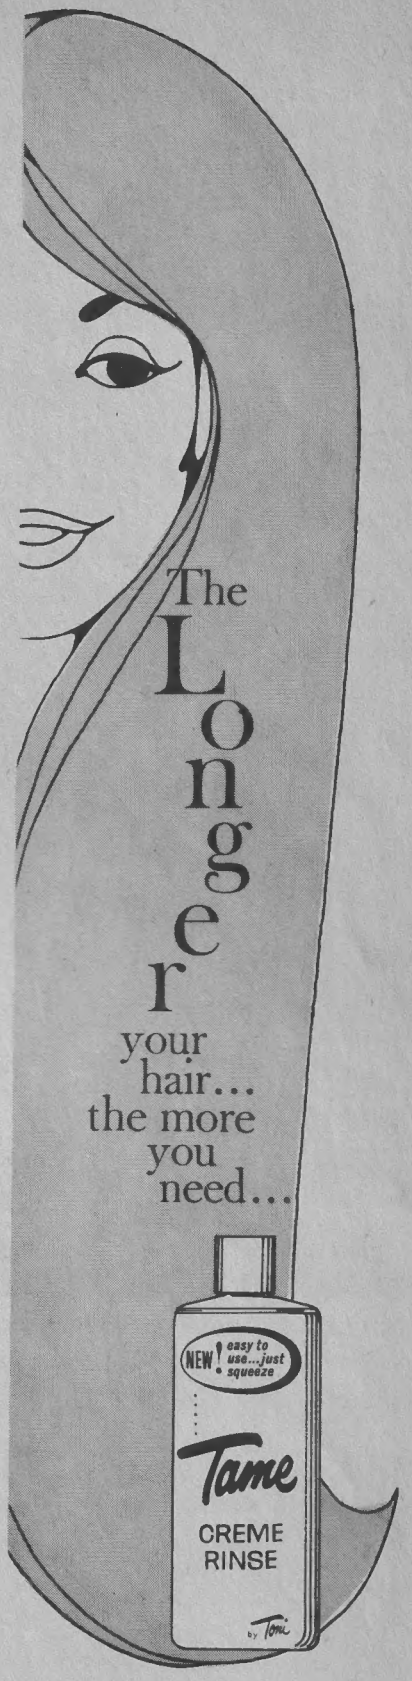
No, Mick and Brian are not planning on leaving the Stones as far as we know. Brian is doing some songwriting on his own, however.

SPANKING RUMOR

Does John Lennon spank John Julian?

We'd ask him, but we're afraid he might spank US. Anyway, since we know how he feels about discussing the details of his family life, we wouldn't blame him if he did.

John and son.



Long hair has problems all its own . . . the more you shampoo it, the more it tangles, the more static-electricity that makes it fly! For those long hair problems—smooth 'em with Tame! Just rinse on after shampooing . . . tangles are gone, hair combs smooth and shining. Long hair loves Tame—Tame Creme Rinse!

The DICK CLARK Column

Above: The Seeds. Below: The Young Rascals in Central Park.

It's fireworks time of the year again, and many of the fireworks are on the pop music scene.

Brian Jones may be leaving The Rolling Stones. At this time, no replacement has been set, and no official word on Brian's leaving has come from any of the Stones.

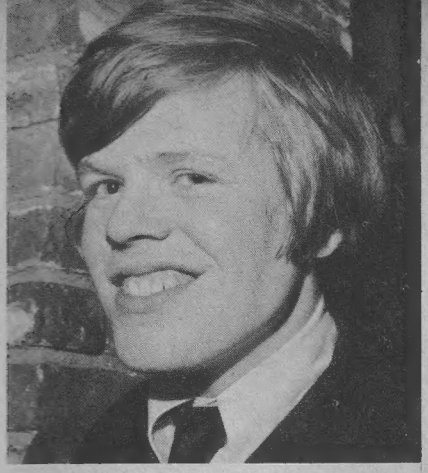
"Yes, We Have No Bananas" has broken through by a new group, appropriately called the United Fruit Company. The group consists of two boys and one girl.

The first song to be heard off the latest (and greatest) Beatles' album was "A Day In The Life." It is one of their finest songs to date and by far the most genius. Unfortunately, after two days of air play, stations were told to take it off the air, as it was not to be released for another five weeks. Their new album will probably be their biggest yet.

A recent concert at the Hollywood Bowl starring The Supremes, The Buffalo Springfield, The Fifth Dimension, The Seeds, Johnny Rivers and Brenda Holloway was an absolute smash sell-out. All performers gave their services as the show was for charity. In addition, the seats were sold for under one dollar apiece. Quite a bargain and for a good cause too. More concerts like this would be a very welcome thing in Los Angeles.

The latest club to open in Hollywood was The Kaleidoscope. Originally scheduled to open in a building near Hollywood & Vine, a last-minute problem with the property owners forced its opening to be moved. The place — none other than the Ambassador Hotel. Opening night starred The Jefferson Airplane. The following week, the Kaleidoscope moved its location to the old Ciro's on the Sunset Strip. They are hoping to be in the building originally planned in the very near future.

The Whisky A-Go-Go is once again changing its policy — away from the Detroit



Herman at a TS party.

Sound and back to groups. Opening will be The Doors, to be followed by such fab groups as The Buffalo Springfield, The Young Rascals and The Byrds.

The first Monterey Pop Festival, held on the second week of June in Monterey, California was a "first" of its kind. The three-day event featured (to name a few) Simon & Garfunkel, The Mamas & Papas, Johnny Rivers, Hugh Masekela, The Buffalo Springfield, The Jefferson Airplane, The Grateful Dead, Dionne Warwick and The Byrds. Any show featuring a line-up like that would have to be OUT-OF-SIGHT. Paul McCartney was one of the sponsors of the festival along with Donovan and Simon & Garfunkel. The festival, by the way, was put on by a non-profit organization and all artists gave their time to participate.

In May, Neil Diamond paid his first visit to England. Neil made as large an impression overseas as here in the states. Among those clamoring to record his songs are Herman's Hermits. Neil is producing now too; his first effort was producing Ronnie Dove's hit, "My Babe," which he also wrote.

Herman's Hermits are now completing their latest film, "Mrs. Brown You've Got A Lovely Daughter." The script was written from an idea based on Herman's big hit of the same title. Filming of the movie was done in London.

We are all looking forward to the Young Rascals visiting Hollywood this summer. Their hit record of "Groovin'" is one of the best releases out this year. I can't wait to see them perform as their act is really one of the best in the pop field.

I hope you are lucky enough to catch the latest Dick Clark tour, "THE BIGGEST HAPPENING OF '67." One of the man attractions will be "Irma, The Happening Girl." Irma actually paints canvases by dipping her hair in paint and then forming designs on the canvas with her head. A most unusual way to do art work, but it is really fantastic. She is really a very pretty girl, 6' tall and with blonde hair.

Have a nice summer.

DICK CLARK

MONKEES ON TOUR!

NEW BEATLE BABY!

D C 5 SCHEDULE!

WALKER BROTHERS BREAK UP!

AND AWAY WE GO: With all the news from Hollywood and the international star scene, that is, so fasten your seat belts and leave us fly!

ON THE ROAD: It's really travelin' time for many of the top groups of the day. In addition to their scheduled appearances in England, and their Hollywood Bowl concert, The Monkees will appear at the Forest Hills Tennis Stadium (in New York) on July 14, 15, and 16. The Monkees will do one show nightly in the open-air arena which, in case you're interested, seats 14,000. Dick Clark Productions is sponsoring the performances, and each will be personally emceed by Dick himself. These three dates are just part of their big summer tour. See page 37 for the full schedule.

Back to the Monkees in England for a moment. TS now has a rep in London, and you can expect all kinds of exclusive Monkee goodies when they arrive there. Keep watching TS.

Above: Monkee Mike (here at the airport with Peter) had his tonsils out just before the tour.
Below: Davy's hair may be shorter, but not as short a Gary's. That's Sally Field at center..

DAVE CLARK FIVE: The DC5 arrived in New York on June 16 and will be touring through July 23. They've already appeared in Boston, Maine, Chicago and North Dakota. Remaining dates on the tour are San Carlos, Calif. — June 26; San Juan, Puerto Rico — July 1; Atlantic City, N.J. — July 4; Wallingford, Conn. — July 9; Baltimore, Md. — July 10; Virginia Beach, Va. — July 15; Cleveland, Ohio — July 16; Camden, N.J. — July 23.

HERMAN'S HERMITS: Dick Clark Productions will also sponsor three summer concerts by Herman's Hermits. These groovy events will take place on July 21 in Oklahoma City, August 29 in Cleveland and September 3 in Pittsburgh. These are the only three dates we have info on, but look for the Hermits to make many more stops cross country.

By the way, the supporting act on the Hermits show will be guitar-smashing Who, of "Happy Jack" fame. (Great record.)

"Mrs. Brown You've Got A Lovely Daughter" began filming in May and is now completed, but can't say for sure when it'll be released. Soon, we hope. The group sings eight songs in the film, and plotwise, it's the story of a budding pop group who take their racing greyhound to London for the annual Greyhound derby.

ROLLING STONES: The Stones are having quite a few problems, to say the least. By the next issue, we'll know how things turned out, and we'd rather not go into the story until we know the ending. So, stay tuned.

BEATLE BITS: Calling all Pauley fans! Guess what! Your true luv has shaved off his mustache. Ringo now has a tiny goatee (just under his lower lip). John and George sport heavy sideburns and mustaches . . . Ringo and Maureen are expecting their second baby in late August. JM heard the good news in March and has been chomping her nails to keep from passing the good news on. The chomping worked — she wouldn't let us print it until the Starkeys made an official announcement . . . There's a strong rumor that George Harrison will accompany Ravi Shankar when the latter plays at the First Annual Pop Festival in Monterey, California in late June . . . August will be a strained month for Beatle fans. We're so used to it being our favorite time of the year, it isn't going to be easy to see the month go by without seeing the Beatles. To make things a bit easier, Beatle people in several cities are sponsoring rallies. (Some are mentioned in this month's "You Wrote" column.) Here's hoping others across the country will do it same.

The Grass Roots are back with all new members.

A song on the new Beatle album was suggested by John Lennon's son. Anyway, the title was! Julian came home from school with a painting he'd done, and when his dad asked what the painting was all about, he replied: "Lucy in the sky with diamonds." Big John turned same into a song!

The Beatles are often seen enjoying the London nightlife at the city's various swinging clubs. Not long ago, John came out to see Donovan perform, and if any of you Lennon fans have been concerned about Our Leader being so thin and seeming so subdued, he now seems back to his own beautiful self again.

WALKER BROTHERS: The American threesome who became one of the all time big hits in England have decided to go their separate ways, and they aren't trying to palm any of those "we're all parting friends and buddies" stories off on their fans. There is dissension in the group, and we hope to have the details soon.

BRIEF GROUP THINGIES: Would you believe that the mustached drummer of the Yellow Balloon (whose first hit was the song of the same name) is actually Don Grady in disguise? Don is an actor as well as a musician and has been a regular on "My Three Sons" ever since the show began. There's a fascinating story behind the masquerade, but there's no room for us to tell it this month . . . The Grass Roots are running The Raiders a close second when it comes to adding to the list of ex-members. But, the group is back in operation, and better than ever, as proved by their "Let's Live For Today" hit.

It's really a gas the way a group called The Fifth Estate (their first was "Ding Dong The Witch Is Dead") got together. One of the members, Wads Wadhams (honest!) has this passion for parties. He gives parties for every known occasion including Bastille Day and often throws parties to celebrate terrific parties that he's just had. Since all the boys live in the same neighborhood, The Fifth Estate just naturally grew out of Wads' cellar.

The cool Buffalo Springfield (ray ! ! !) subbed for The Byrds when they were unable to play a local nitery engagement at the last minute. Reason for their cancellation was Jim McGuinn's cold, which turned into pneumonia. Be calm, Byrd birds. He's recovered!

Speaking of the Byrds, they composed and recorded their first title song for a movie. The film is the Tony Curtis starrer, "Don't Make Waves".

BEACH BOYS: Carl Wilson of the Beach Boys is not, no matter what you may have heard, a draft dodger. Carl is a conscientious objector, and there is a great deal of difference between the two. He doesn't believe in war, period, violence being against his personal and religious beliefs. Late in June, Carl's "military future" will be decided. In the past, many conscientious objectors have been given desk jobs or been trained as medics, so they could serve their term in the service without having to actively participate in violence. It's hard to predict what will happen in Carl's case, so we won't. We will, however, hope for the best for him.

ably make a movie on his own this summer. Don't take this news as any kind of evidence that DD&B are heading for a break-up. There's been no news and not even any rumors about that subject, so be calm . . . Many Dylan fans turned up their noses when Bob decided to electrify his act by adding electric guitars and producing a folk-rock sound. Before this, Dylan had been strictly folk, accompanied only by guitar and/or harmonica. Well, another artist has decided to do the same thing. He's not as well known as Dylan, but watch him because he soon may be. For the last five years, fans have been following him all over California just to hear him sing. (Your editor is no exception. She first became a follower when she heard him sing at the Prison Of Socrates, a beach coffee house.) All of us wish him all the luck in the world. He already has all the talent. His name is Tim Morgon. Remember it.

Get set for a new twosome. Well, new really isn't the right word because Tommy Boyce and Bobby Hart have been around for some time, and have written over thirty (count 'em) hit records for other artists. For instance, they've penned many of the Monkees' hits, including their first one, "Last Train To Clarksville". Tommy and Bobby have now decided to sing some of their own material and we can hardly wait for them to hurry up and get started!

Dino isn't the only pop star who'll be making a film this summer. So will Tommy Roe. The script is being finalized right now, and shooting will probably begin shortly. You'll love it. It's about a pop star who's on a tour and when the tour bus breaks down he . . . whoops, there we go, giving things away again.

Twiggy's visit to our town was quite spectacular. The young (17) English model who is thin as an ironing board particularly dug Disneyland. She came to Hollywood with her manager, Justin (who is a dead ringer for Hollywood DJ Don Steele), and got off her fair share of Cockney quips to the press.

Twiggy's visit inspired songwriter Gladys Shelley to write a tune titled, you guessed it, "Twiggy"! It's been recorded by Steve Clayton on the Spiral label.

Every Mother's Son made a splash with "Come On Down To My Boat".

Bruce and the brand new Pontiac Firebird that Monkee Mike Nesmith gave him for his birthday. It was completely a surprise-type thingy. WILL DAVY BE DRAFTED?

When JM asked me to get to the bottom of the Davy Jones Draft Dilemma, it sounded like a pretty tall

Here's hoping this is as close as Davy will get to a uniform for a long time

One of the grooviest pix ever taken of Davy. His new haircut looks great!

order, but it turned out to be just the opposite because the only "Dilemma" to be found was a lot of rumors and unnecessary worry.

Unfounded as they were, the rumors really set off sparks. There was a "demonstration" by Davy fans in England that hit the papers all over the world, there were letters to President Johnson, and there was much concern on the part of Monkee fans all over the world.

Well, all of you can relax. Davy has not been drafted. He hasn't even been called up for a pre-induction physical. All he has done is receive his classification. This makes him eligible for the draft, but why panic about that? Thousands of other guys (would you believe millions?) are just as eligible.

The whole big "Dilemma" seems a little ridiculous when you realize that it all started just because Davy could be drafted. So could a lot of other stars, and here's hoping the panic-button-pushers don't try making a big deal out of this, too.

You might be wondering how and why Davy could be drafted while he's still a British subject.

Many people don't know that when a citizen of any other country takes up residence in the United States, they must agree to make themselves available for military service. The military service isn't a compulsory thing — what you agree to do is take the same chance of getting drafted as an American citizen does.

After six months in the U.S., all draft-age non-citizens have to report to their local selective service board and receive their draft classification. This is the same thing every male citizen does at the age of eighteen.

A pensive mood. . .

There are a lot of pros and cons about whether a non-citizen should be drafted. Some say why should he because it isn't his country and its problems aren't his problems. On the other hand, some feel that if a person lives here he should abide by the same rules we do — all of them. How you feel about the subject is up to you.

Davy received a 1-A classification, the highest rating you can get, meaning you're in A-1 shape for military service. But many, many such classifications are made every day, and not everyone who receives one is called. Not nearly everyone.

Will Davy Jones be drafted? That's like asking if John Smith or Joe Doe will be drafted. Because they have just as much chance of being drafted as he does.

The best thing to do is not to worry. Sure, Davy appreciates your concern, but he doesn't want his fans shook up, especially when there's nothing to be shook up about! — BB

Bruce purposely kept his Monkee report short this month so I could tell you just how much Davy appreciates your concern.

After Bruce had, at my request, gotten the above info from Davy, I had an unusual and unusually nice phone call.

I have to tell you how it happened, although I shouldn't take up the space with my ravings. It was during the evening on a week night. I was home, listening to records with several friends, when the phone rang. (Oddly enough, this usually precedes a phone call, unusual or otherwise.) (Oh brother.)

To put it mildly, I hate phones. After talking on them all day, I'm inclined to let the one at home ring off the blasted wall before I'll answer it. When it became apparent that I wasn't going to answer it this time, one of my friends did, in his usual friendly (grrrr) manner. He then said "Who's this?" in an equally friendly manner.

"David Jones?" he added, still in that one tone of voice.

That's when I kicked him. Grabbing the phone, I headed for the tall timber (otherwise known as the privacy of my own broom closet).

As you may have guessed (ho), it was Davy. He'd called just to make sure that we had all the facts so we wouldn't further stir up his already falsely-alarmed fans.

"There's no reason to make a big deal of it," he said, and rightly so. "I'm only eligible for the draft, and who isn't?"

I don't know if I succeeded, but I tried to sort of apologize to Davy for the fact that anyone had even tried to make a big deal of it. I get a bit tongue-tied or self conscious or something around English stars because I know they're pretty shocked by some of our press tactics in America. Meaning the way some magazines make mountains out of molehills and some newspapers print slanted, opinionated stories under the guise of straight news.

I also told him we wouldn't even be printing about the big "dilemma that never was" if so much hadn't been printed already and if so many Monkee fans weren't up in the air, not knowing who to believe. All we intend to do, I promised him, is tell the readers of TS there's nothing to be upset about and never was.

When the conversation turned to other topics, Davy mentioned the Monkees forthcoming (at that time) concert at the Hollywood Bowl. He was excited about it, and with good reason. Good reason you'll be reading about in the next issue of TS.

Before he rang off, we got back onto the subject of the draft again, and I said: "You don't have a thing to worry about until you open a letter that begins GREETINGS . . . "

Davy half choked and half laughed. "Is that how it starts?"

"I'm afraid so."

"That I've got to see," he said.

And all I can say is that I hope he doesn't see it for a long, long time. — JM

THOUGHTS DEDICATED TO THE ONE I LOVE
See here . . .
Gazing about me with much beware
I sneak up and grab him and hold him
And when he says "why?," I simply reply
"Baby, I just want to touch your hair."
Sure . . .
I dreamed of George in mashed potatoes,
And I was the meatloaf on the rug.
This may seem daft,
But it's a thought of much craft.

Yes, that's true . . .
Paul may have his sceptered isle
But only George has a crooked smile.
Look, Buster . . .

THE MIDNIGHT HOUR
George and I have "British Hours"
That are full of fun and luv.
These are the times when George showers
Me with a special kind of love.
In our "British Hours" we go sightseeing
To see Big Ben and the changing of the Guards
But the moments we enjoy the most
Are when George sings to me while
We are sitting close.
And in our "British Hours"
Pattie has no part, because
If she did it would break my heart.
Someday, I know I'll settle
Back for our "British Hours" and
He will not be there.
The tears will fall and I'll search and search, but the search will be in vain.
For my love is mine and his love is his
And they will never be the same.

THE JEFFERS

Have Talent, Will Fly (To T

Back row: Jack Casady, Grace Slick, Marty Balin; Front row: Jorma Kaukoner

ON AIRPLANE

ne Top)

One of them wore a button with an unprintable (but funny) word on it; one had a mini-skirt; and all had long hair, shades and high boots. Together they are Jefferson Airplane.

Collectively they form a groovy rock band which makes its headquarters in San Francisco, playing at clubs, be-ins and love-ins. They also record, and have the odd distinction of having a hit album (their first, "Jefferson Airplane Takes Off") before they'd ever had a hit single. That has since been remedied, however.

Collectively, too, they are five talkative, wild people — and one quiet one. He is Marty Balin, leader of the group. Marty paints in his spare time, but otherwise sits and observes the world.

Individually the rest are Grace Slick, lead singer who wears mini-skirts and high boots very well; Spencer Dryden, drummer and only one of the group wearing a tie; Paul Kantner, rhythm guitarist, who wore a muffler in spite of the heat; Jorma Kaukonen, lead guitarist in an iron cross and Aztec sun-burst pin; and Jack Casady, bassist and number one clown of the group. Needless to say, Jack was the one with the button . . .

Everyone began talking at once. Jorma (a Finnish name pronounced as if the "J" were a "Y," "Yorma") sat, smiled and claimed his alter-ego was "bitter reality" as Spence asked if we'd like to hear the nicknames they are have for each other. He wouldn't give his own, though.

Marty they call Bucky Mod; Paul, Twinkie; Jack is The Toad, and he made appropriate toad-sounds to prove it. Jorma they call Early, which is understandable since the other five and the interviewer had to wait for him; and Grace is the Grundge, but they wouldn't explain it.

Marty yawned frequently, and all wished they could jump in the pool, which loomed invitingly nearby. Jack murmured something about really being a convict of some sort whom governor Reagan had set free to reproduce his music, and Jorma described the Airplane's music as "disorganized hot licks."

Marty and Paul write most of the group's music, but all of the Airplane members write to some extent.

When asked who had the greatest effect on their musical careers, two members leaned toward jazz as the greatest influence, with Spence naming Elvin Jones, Roy Haines and Charles Lloyd. Grace preferred Miles Davis' "Sketches of Spain." Jack and Paul could think of no specific influence, Marty named Walt Disney, and Jorma said, "my icebox."

Hobbies of Jefferson Airplane members include Marty's painting and Jorma's guitar-playing. Paul "drives too fast," Grace disappears (where?), Spence gets "hung up" and moves furniture, and "Jack becomes, as he goes in search of his holy sound."

All of them have odd possessions, as well.

Grace: "I have a red tractor in my back yard — in case I get some new neighbors I don't like."

Marty: "Grunt; on second thought, my meditation." (?)

Spence: "Some paintings by Gene Riddle and a large red ball." (Which hangs from the ceiling.)

Jack: "My dog, Nipper."

Jorma: "My sainted Aunt Minerva."

Paul: "Well, I do have this Negro Monk locked in my closet. He'd really appreciate it if you mentioned him, because he doesn't get much publicity." (!)

Beginning in June, Jefferson Airplane starts a tour of Europe which will last a month, and in the meantime they have been guesting on various television shows, such as American Bandstand and the Smothers Brothers Show.

They will also be doing a sequence in George C. Scott and Julie Christie's new movie, "Arch-Kook Petulia," at the end of the year.

And they'll doubtless have even more happy landings in the future.

Found out something else about Doors Ray, Robby, John and Jim (from left to right) - they don't like to be interviewed. We understood, but to be honest about it, we'd have understood better if we'd asked to interview them instead of the other way around. Oh well, no one is perfect.

THE DOORS

THEY OPEN ---THEY CLOSE---SOMETIMES THEY EVEN SLAM---

BUT THEY PLAY BEAUTIFUL MUSIC.

There is a great new sound breaking through from Los Angeles in the form of the Doors, four college men who have forsaken the academic world for the Hollywood musical scene.

The Doors are Robby Krieger, the youngest at 21, a native Angeleno who dropped out of UC Santa Barbara and UCLA where he was studying physics and psychology to join the group. He said it was because the group is so serious — the most serious group that ever was, that ever will be. It was also because "the whole college thingy is based on the Gutenberg business rather than the electronics business," he said.

Robby comes across as a shy, friendly guy, who sits back and wonders about the rest of the world. He's afraid of cops, likes "older women" and believes in the Great Pumpkin and spirits in the air. "There are things going on around us that we don't know about", he warned, and just because we can't see them doesn't mean they're not there. Robby is the guitarist of the Doors.

Then there is John Densmore, 22, who hails from Santa Monica, another college drop-out who had studied anthropology and various other subjects at various colleges around the Los Angeles area before joining the Doors as their drummer. He is unlike most drummers, however, in that he doesn't constantly paradiddle, or flammadiddle while talking. He is a happy-go-lucky sort of person, finding fun in everything and everyone. His only hang-up is cops (a common fear around here), and he likes "big girls with long hair" as long as it isn't red. John agrees with the other Doors that music will soon be nothing but electronically oriented, but he says he hopes it isn't so electronic it sounds like computer music.

Organist for the group is Ray Manzarek, from Chicago and at 25 the oldest of the group. He is not a college drop-out, and as a matter of fact holds a master's degree which he won't talk about. He and singer-writer Jim Morrison met while at the film school at UCLA, and are the original nucleus of the Doors.

Ray is definitely the silent type, sitting and observing, and only making comments when he was called upon to do so. One gets the feeling while watching Ray that he is silently laughing at everyone, silently mocking them.

Finally there is Florida-born 23-year-old Jim Morrison, singer, writer and most vocal of the Doors. Jim stalks, he doesn't walk, and though he too holds a degree from UCLA, he won't talk about it either.

Jim was eager to talk about where he feels pop music is going, however, a direction of new music he knows he will like.

For at least ten more years, Jim said, music will continue to assimilate styles from all fields of music, from the past and from different areas of the world, as it is doing now. Then it will go off into a completely different direction. It will have no antecedent at all, no roots or connection with anything of the past, he said, although it will probably be electronically oriented, in which he agreed with John. Still, he and Ray stated that they felt it would be more intricate and more complex than any of today's music.

Jim feels that the lyrics will grow away from today's too-literary, too self-conscious forms, back to the more primitive and basic. He feels that the new music will be "as familiar as a nursery rhyme or a tune you heard in childhood, before you were ever conscious." He cited the lyrics of vintage artists such as Chuck Berry as being great because they were unconscious, and said the lyrics of tomorrow will likewise be unconscious, or directly from the subconscious.

Today's youth and musical generation especially, Jim feels, is getting sharper and sharper, so that groups will play their music, and an audience will form to hear it. Again he reiterated that it will be unlike anything that has ever gone before.

And an artist will become much more basic, going out into the home and onto the street recording the sounds of life for his works. Instruments may vanish altogether, he added.

The closest thing to what he had been talking about, Jim said, is the musical end of the Beatles' "Strawberry Fields Forever," but with the difference that the new music will be able to be performed publicly, which the Beatles can no longer do with their new sounds.

Jim ended by saying "We're the Doors because when you go into a strange town, you check into a hotel. Then after you've played your gig, you go back to your room, down an endless corridor lined with doors until you get to your own. But when you open the door you find there are lots of people inside, and you wonder: Am I in the wrong room? Or is it some kind of party . . . ?"

PETER TORK

August 1967

MONKEE PETE

Here we are with the third segment of the Monkee Super Pinup series TS is printing due to popular demand. We've already seen Davy and Micky, and in this issue Peter Tork occupies the place of honor.

A few years ago Peter Torkelson, the son of a college professor, was a folk singer and guitarist in New York's Greenwich Village. Today he's known as Peter Tork, and is one of the groovy Monkees.

Born in Washington, D.C., Feb. 13, 1942, Pete is the oldest Monkee, but the one with the cutest dimples. He has sandy hair and soulful brown eyes.

Pete had always liked music, but tried college twice, thinking he'd rather be an English teacher. He changed his mind. Then Greenwich Village beckoned him, and guitar in hand, he joined the folk crowd. The Village crowd then consisted of the Lovin' Spoonful, and the future Mamas and Papas, among others. All have remained friends, especially since both Pete and the Mamas and Papas have been transposed to Hollywood.

Since joining the Monkees, Peter has taken up electric guitar, but still entertains in concert with some magnificent banjo work.

Don't miss the next issue of TS, which will feature the fourth Monkee. A giant color pinup of Mike Nesmith!

HARPERS, SI!

groovy group interview

From Left To Right: Ted Templeman, Ed James, Dick John Peterson, and (kneeling) Dick (Scop) Scoppetone

A "harper" is defined as a player of stringed instruments, "bizarre" is definded as weird; and so they call themselves Harpers Bizarre. Only they're not, really . . . bizarre, that is.

What they are is five talented musicians who don't want to be like all the other groups today. Drummer John Peterson said that the aim of the group is to bridge the gap between the "easy listening" radio stations, and the stations who just play hard rock. They will do this by having a staged performance, because in this way, John said, they feel that they will be able to communicate with the audience in other ways besides music.

Besides John, who at 25 is the oldest and the only one of the group who is not a native Californian, Harpers Bizarre consists of Ed James, 19, lead guitar; Dick Yount, 22, bass guitar; and Ted Templeman, 20 and Dick (Scap) Scoppetone, 21, who share the duties of lead singer and rhythm guitarist.

Scap was on a junket with the National Guard at the time of this interview, but the other four sat down for a gab session, and the results are the answers and comments below.

TS: What do you think of the pop music scene today?

JOHN: Today's music is ever-changing, and ever-better. I feel it has progressed, leveled, and is now progressing to its full capacity, although now it's only at a beginning point.

DICK: It's the Beatles who are the patron saints and guiding light of the movement.

TS: What do you think of the psychedelic movement?

JOHN: It's a state of mind, but anything is well-appreciated. The more variety, the better.

TS: What do you think of today's young people, and their movements here on the Sunset Strip?

ED: Most just jumped on for the ride, but the original concept was good.

JOHN: It was natural, because young people are energetic and looking for new things all the time.

TS: What is your oddest possession?

JOHN: These beads around my neck — they're strung on fishing wire.

BIZARRE, NO!

ED: I only own ordinary things.

JOHN: Poor boy!

TS: Ted and Dick, what about you?

TED: My metal bass. It's an upright and if it was strung, it would really play.

DICK: I have this palm tree in my yard, and it's my favorite. I've nursed it through several illnesses, and I've even mentioned it in my will. Oh, and I also have a comic book collection, dating back to the early forties.

TS: What do you do in your spare time?

JOHN: I write, but nothing specific, just my thoughts — in prose.

ED: I climb trees — it's a good feeling.

TED: I have a purple diary, and I write down reviews of the day's events.

DICK: I do pen and ink drawings, usually religious satires.

TS: Do you have any nicknames for each other?

JOHN: Not really, although we call Dick "Doctor." What we do is put "ard" on the end of all of our names — Johnard, Tedard, Edard, Dickard, and then we turn it into pig Latin. They ought to bring back pig Latin, don't you think?

ED: Or we could use double Dutch.

DICK: What's that?

TED: you add "ib" before every vowel. It's hard, though.

TS: In that case: gibuys, what country would you like to visit?

TED: Switzerland, because it's clean and sanitary. I'd also like to learn to ski.

DICK: I'd like to try Germany — West, of course.

JOHN: Any place in Europe — England, Germany, France...

ED: I'd like to go on safari in Africa.

TS: What fictional character would you like to be?

TED: Crusader Rabbit.

DICK: Thunderbolt the Wonder Colt.

ED: I AM Superman.

JOHN: Ulysses—the one by James Joyce.

TS: Really? Then what kind of girls do you like?

JOHN: Girls who are themselves.

ED: I want to find a girl who can really communicate with me. It's the most important thing.

TED: Friendly girls, and short, because I'm only 5'7".

DICK: I like girls who are well-rounded in every way.

TS: What most intrigues you about a girl when you first meet her?

TED: What she does with her hands.

DICK: All of her, but her mind, especially.

JOHN: The entire person.

ED: Nothing — I know all about them!

TS: Is that so? Humph! Who is your most admired person?

ED: Andre Segovia.

TED: Albert Schweitzer.

JOHN: People who decide what they want and go after it — people with a purpose. I don't always admire the means they use, but the fact that they are going after what they want.

DICK: Adam and Eve.

TS: What really gets you uptight?

DICK: Oh, every time I accidentally trip — that's bad.

ED: When I'm beaten, as in up. It gets me rather mad...

JOHN: Anyone who pushes, for any reason.

TED: It just happened to us, and what really gets me mad is when people ask if I'm a girl or a boy!

TS: What was your most embarrassing experience?

TED: The time I hit a horse with my car — I mean, a horse!

DICK: I surf a lot in Santa Cruz, and one time I got hit on the head with a surfboard, and everyone stood around laughing!

JOHN: When I first started growing my mustache, and no one could see it in the daytime because it's so blond.

ED: When I was in the third grade — the teacher asked me to get up and do a math problem on the blackboard, and when I didn't know how to do it the whole class laughed at me. So I cried, kicked the blackboard and ran out of class!

TS: RED.

TED: Ferrari.

DICK: Story.

ED: Light.

JOHN: Sunrise, or sunset, or the sun.

TS: Then what's your favorite color?

ALL: Blue.

TED: That's because it matches our eyes — all five of us have blue eyes, and all of us but Scap are blond.

TS: What odd beliefs do you have?

TED: Nothing, I only believe in conventional things.

ED: And I can't stay on one subject long enough to believe or disbelieve it.

JOHN: Astrology, flying saucers, although I haven't seen one yet, and I'm pretty well convinced about reincarnation.

DICK: I believe in eyes — it's the best way to communicate with a person.

TS: What scares you the most?

DICK: Airplanes, because I don't know what's going on up there in the cockpit, and because my life is really in another's hands. If I had my choice I'd never fly.

TED: Electricity — because it's unpredictable and intangible. Wires which have fallen on the road really scare me.

ED: People, because you never know what they're going to do. People are the truly unpredictable ones — like the Texas sniper.

JOHN: I try not to be scared, and I don't let myself. For instance high speeds are scary, but intriguing.

TS: Then what intrigues you the most?

JOHN: High speeds, again, and different types of beads.

ED: Everything and nothing.

TED: I like speed, too, and I like to drive.

DICK: Motorcycles, and talented people, people with a special skill.

TS: Do you watch TV? If so, what are your favorite programs?

TED: I don't have time for TV.

DICK: I like the "Tonight" show because of Johnny Carson.

ED: I like old Tarzan or cowboy movies with Gary Cooper.

JOHN: I like old movies of W. C. Fields and Humphrey Bogart.

June and July, Harpers Bizarre will tour the East Coast and Midwest. Then they will return to the West Coast for more concerts. Meanwhile, their album and new single follow-up to "Fifty-Ninth Street Bridge Song" or "Feeling Groovy" should be high on the charts. Their single is "Come to the Sunshine," b/w "Debutante's Ball."

FANG & SMITTY LEAVE! MEET The New RAIDERS!

TS will probably be the first magazine to bring you the news that not only Harpo, but Mike (Smitty) Smith and Phil (Fang) Volk have left Paul Revere & The Raiders, and it isn't a very pleasant task.

However, it's just the opposite (pleasant plus) to introduce you to the threesome who'll be taking their places.

That's what we're going to do in this issue. Next issue, we hope to bring you the story of what Smitty and Fang's plans are. But, for the moment, let's concentrate on the new Raiders.

We're going to concentrate particularly on Freddie this month. In fact, we had our TS Raider Rooter, Chari Wine, do a special story on him, which follows.

We'll have mucho info about the other two Raiders soon, but for a starter, one of them really isn't a new Raider at all. He's Charlie Coe, most recently with Don & The Goodtimes, but before Drake Levin joined Paul Revere, Charlie was a Raider!

Charlie is twenty and will be doubling on guitar and bass, as will Freddy.

The new drummer of the group (sorry, we don't have a pic of him yet) is twenty-year-old Joe Junior. Raider Manager Roger Hart told us that they looked and looked for exactly the drummer boy they wanted, and "found him in the backwoods of Mississippi." Joe is from Greenwood, Miss. to be exact. This is his first job with a big group, and he still can't believe all this is happening to him. You're really going to dig Joe. He's very unassuming and very funny. (When asked to describe his home, he said: "Oh, it's the one on the corner with the flowers around it.")

There's no question about whether you're going to dig all the Raiders. We realize it's going to be an adjustment for the really avid Harpo, Smitty and Fang fans, but please give the new Raiders a chance to show you what good things they can do.

Many Raider people are having that chance right now, and more soon will be because the Raiders have been on tour since June 8. Since this issue will go on sale around the 20th of June, here's where you can see the Raiders in person after that date.

New Raider Charlie Coe

Get Ready - Here's FREDDIE

Meet Freddie Weller, brand new Raider!

There is a brand new Raider running around among us, and TS would like to join us in extending a warm welcome to this new addition to Uncle Paul's nuts—Freddie Weller.

As you read this, Freddie will have been a Raider for just about a month and as he celebrates his first month's anniversary, we'd like to tell you a little bit about him.

Freddie is brown of eye, and equally brown of hair — which is also long and shiny — and weighs in at a heavy 140 pounds, which looks very nice on his five-foot, ten-inch shelf. He had his world debut just nineteen years ago on September 9, 1947 in Atlanta, Georgia.

Up until about a year ago, Freddie spent a good deal of his time playing guitar for Billy Joe Royal, both on tour and on Billy's recording sessions as well. As he is a very talented lead and bass guitarist, Freddie was included on all of Billy Joe's tours, and it was during one such gig in Cleveland that Freddie was first introduced to Paul Revere and his Radiant Raiders.

After that first chance meeting, Freddie recalls having run into Uncle Paul and Merrye Olde Bande any number of times on tour around the country, and so it was that they all became friends. When a vacancy suddenly materialized within the Banned of Raider-types, Freddie was naturally (naturally!) the very first person Paul contacted, and he has been a Raider ever since.

Freddie's very first appearance with the group was on the Ed Sullivan show after just barely one week's rehearsal. He admitted to being a little nervous about the whole thing, but very happy just the same. When we spoke to Freddie, it was just about a week and a half after his debut performance with the Raiders on that "realllly biggg shewww," and he was still quite excited about it. Freddie had called us from Uncle Paul's spacious home in the San Fernando Valley, located among the sun-and-nice-green-growing things of Southern California, and while Uncle Paul's little son screamed loudly in the background, Freddie explained, "I haven't had a chance to really feel it yet — it all hit me so quickly, I didn't really know what was happening!"

At this point, Freddie had been spending nearly every day with Paul and Mark, learning and perfecting the various Raider routines and working on the group's material with them; and, though he was a little tired, Freddie eagerly assured us that he was very happy and that, "I like all of the boys very much. I think they're all really great." About Mark — "I think that he's a very likeable person, and I really like him." About Uncle Paul — "Paul is a very business-minded person, but he's also very likeable. He's a great guy."

For the year before Freddie joined the Raiders, he was spending much of his time writing and producing records for various people, and while he intends to continue his songwriting, he quickly admits that "if Paul and the boys use them, that's another thing!" He also harbors a secret ambition to someday own his own recording studio where he can produce his own records.

A very quiet and thoughtful young man, Freddie is very serious and concerned about his role as an entertainer; and though it is a new role for him, it is one to which he has already given much thought. He agrees that there are definite obligations and responsibilities which a performer has to his public, explaining that "I think setting a good example to the kids who watch and admire you is a big responsibility." And, it is a responsibility which Freddie fully intends to fulfill.

If you speak to anyone who is acquainted with Freddie, they will immediately tell you of his many talents as a musician; when we asked him what he felt could be accomplished with music, he thought for a moment and replied, "I can be happy — which is the important thing to *every*body . . . no matter what business they're in." He went on to explain that music can also accomplish happiness for other people, as well — the people for whom Freddie is playing that music — and that, too, is important to him.

As we spoke to Freddie, he had been a Raider for only about a week and a half, and had been "home" in California for only a few days. It was at the conclusion of a very long 45-day tour which the Raiders had just completed, and when we rang Mark Allen Lindsay to say hello and ask him about the new Raider — we found him in bed suffering from acute exhaustion!

We extended our condolences to him and after sharing our last bottle of Handy-Dandy-Vitamin-Thingies with him, he agreed to take a few moments out from his fatigue and tell us about Freddie. (Ed. note — for those of you who are concerned, Mark is now well and healthy as a White Knight again, so don't worry!)

"I want to tell you about Freddie!" announced Mr. Lindsay loudly from a chair in his dining room. At this point, a cat walked across the table in front of us, oblivious to our conversation, and immediately clambered atop Mark's shoulder (lucky kitty!) and began to purr. "We first met Freddie about a year ago in a concert we were playing in Cleveland, Ohio. On the same bill was Billy Joe Royal, and in the course of the enagagement, we were standing backstage and Billy Joe said, 'Oh! — by the way . . . this is my guitar player, Freddie Weller. And, we noticed, standing in front of us, a very good-looking, shy — he seemed rather shy — guitar player. He seemed very nice, and we ran into him from time to time because he toured with Billy Joe — every time Billy Joe did a show, he took Freddie with him because he was such a good guitar player that he didn't want to work with any other.

"So, when there came a vacancy in our group—which has happened before—as a matter of fact, to date there have been twenty-eight Raiders in the group, Paul and myself being the charter members, so to speak — one of the first persons who popped into our heads was, of course, Freddie, because of his appearance, and his personality, and his talent. So, we contacted him and said, 'How'd ya like to pick with us, kid?!'

"Actually," continued Mark Allen, contemplating the kitty-cat perched upon his chest, "Freddie and I get along very well. Most people from the South are very polite — not knocking people of the North, of which I am one — but, it's going to be kind of nice to have a 'Rebel-Raider' in the group, which he has to be, coming from South of the Mason-Dixon line. If people ask me why he was chosen, I have to say because of his outstanding personality, fantastic good looks, and his superlative talents — and, what more can you say?!"

DJ Don Steele, Paul, Mark, and Raider manager Roger Hart.

Mark discussed the Raider act and the progress it has made over the years, explaining that while the boys are now including more and more skits in their performances, they are also including more and more of their hit records—of which there are many. This satisfies the requests of many of the Raider-rooters who attend the concerts and wish to hear their favorite Raider tunes, but unfortunately it doesn't allow the boys as much of an opportunity to display their great musical versatility as much as they might like.

But, hang tight, Raider buddies, as this, too may soon be remedied. The Raiders have movies in the immediate future, with filming tentatively scheduled to begin this fall or early winter, in which the boys will be able to display their acting talents in addition to their musical and comedic abilities. Mark emphatically pointed out, however, that "the basic thing with the Raiders has been, and will continue to be, entertainment; we want people —no matter how much they pay— to get their money's worth. People say, 'what's your bag?' and we have to say that we're entertainers, and the music isn't secondary — but, a part of it. We go out there to give people their money's worth, and if they go away saying, 'well — that wasn't so good — that isn't what we want.

"We want them to go away saying, 'Hey — that's the greatest thing I've ever seen!' whether it was music, or our skits, or the whole package we've got with us — it has to be a part of everything. But, we want, basically, for people to forget if they have any hang-ups, or if they're worried about the future of the world — just to forget it for two-and-a-half hours, or however long we're there, because that's what it's all about. That's the whole idea — you can forget who you are, or what it is that's wrong for a little while, and if we do that—that's what it's all about."

With that, the little kitty-cat began purring loudly and Mark Allan Lindsay — being basically masculine, wonderful, and an honest-to-goodness White Knight without armor — immediately devoted his full attention to his feline companion. But, not before he joined us once again in sending out a giant Rebel Yell to welcome the brand new Rebel Raider to the group.

A great big WELCOME to ya, Freddie — it's great to have you aboard! — Chari Wine

UL REVERE
AND THE RAIDERS

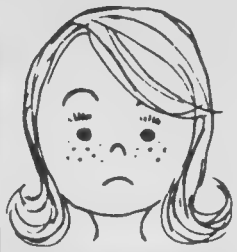
teen problems



by Elizabeth Cowan

TOO YOUNG TO MARRY

Dear Miss Cowan:

I am only 16 and too young to get married. This boy has forced himself on me and I was afraid I'd hurt his feelings if I dropped him. Soon he will be coming over 2,000 miles to see me. He is 19 and very much in love with me. He has said he will kill himself if I drop him. What should I do? I don't love him like I thought I did.

B.T.
Phoenix, Ariz.

Dear B.T.

Luckily most people who threaten to kill themselves are bluffing, so don't feel obligated to him for that reason. Have you talked over this problem with your parents? They could probably help you as well as talk to him if he won't listen to you. Stand firm.

SHUNNED GUITARIST

Dear Miss Cowan:

I am 15, and last spring I was in an accident, and as a result my legs drew up so that I couldn't walk. It took me until March to get my balance back. I now own a Guild, F-hole guitar, and I'm better now than I was before. My problem is that now my band won't have anything to do with me. What did I do wrong?

T.W.
Medford, Ore.

Dear T.W.

It is plain to see that your so-called friends are not really friends at all, and are not very grown up. Keep playing the guitar and try to find another group, one that will appreciate your talents. Good luck!

LOVELESS CUPID

Dear Miss Cowan:

My problem is boys. They just like me as a buddy, but nothing more serious. I'm always starting romances for everyone else, but for myself, nothing ever happens. I'm average-looking ... but I have a very loud laugh. Some people have told me that it's my laugh that scares boys away. I've tried to control it, but it still comes out loud. What should I do?

O.D.
Los Angeles, Calif.

Dear O.D.

Your laugh couldn't be the only reason that you don't have any boyfriends. If you are always neat, clean, and have a good personality, look into your mannerisms and always try to be sweet and vivacious.

QUESTION OF HAIR

Dear Miss Cowan:

I am 13 years old, and my mother has a lot of friends who keep telling me to cut my hair. But I had it cut three years ago and it just looked horrible. What should I do?

P.S.
Sylmar, Calif.

Dear P.S.

I agree it's nice to have long hair, but if so many people have told you to cut it maybe you would look better in shorter hair. Go to a beauty parlor, and have it trimmed and styled, and always keep it neat and clean after that. Then see what everyone says!

PENLESS PAL

Dear Miss Cowan:

I had a pen-pal for about a year, then he suddenly stopped writing. What should I do?

D.N.
San Francisco, Calif.

Dear D.N.

Write him one more letter, and then if you don't hear from him, give up.

NAVAL MANEUVERS

Dear Miss Cowan:

I am 18 years old and I've been writing to a Navy boy who is 19. He finally had a leave and I got to meet him. He is about the greatest guy I have ever met, and so I fell in love with him and told him so. Now he won't write to me any more. Did I scare him away? How can I get him back?

D.A.N.
Celina, Ohio

Dear D.A.N.

Unfortunately nothing scares a guy away faster than telling him you love him. To him this automatically means marriage and/or loss of freedom. Try writing him a letter making no reference to what you said, and acting real cool. But don't get your hopes up.

TOO YOUNG

Dear Miss Cowan:

I am 12 and these boys I know who are 18 and 19 ask me out for dates. My mother won't let me go. What should I do?

Broken-hearted
Cincinnati, Ohio

Dear Broken-hearted:

Your mother is right, these boys are too old for you. Try meeting boys nearer your own age, and she'll probably let you go out.

TWIGGY

Dear Miss Cowan:

What do you do for a flat figure? I'm now 16!

L.B.
Silver Springs, Md.

Dear L.B.

Wear a padded bra or become a model and cash in on it!

NO NECKING

Dear Miss Cowan:

Why do boys always have to neck on the first date and all dates? I'm still going to high school and my boyfriend's not. He wants to neck all the time we're together.

Do you think a guy and girl should neck on every date? My mom and I both think it's wrong, but my boyfriend doesn't want to listen. Should I break up with him?

M.V.S.
Holland, Mich.

Dear M.V.S.

There's nothing wrong with a goodnight kiss after every date, but heavy necking can be dangerous, since it can lead to complications. If your boyfriend still won't listen to reason, find someone else.

DON'T QUIT

A little while ago I started writing to a boy and I recently went to visit him. He is very lonely and very sweet. But he decided he didn't want to be alone ever again and now he is going to leave his hometown and school (he's only in the tenth grade) just to be with me. I wrote and told him I want to be free and date others, and that he should finish school because he can't get anywhere with just a tenth-grade education. Do you think it was right for me to act like this? I'm 17 and too young to go steady.

N.G.C.
London, Ont. Can.

Dear N.G.C.

It was very fair of you to tell this boy the truth, and you are right on both points. Since he is so young, it might even be helpful to him to write and tell his parents, unless you know of some reason why they shouldn't be told. Then talk to your minister, and ask him to get in touch with this boy's minister to possibly give him needed help. He sounds like he could use it.

FACTS OF LIFE

Dear Miss Cowan:

I am 13 and my mother has told me a little about the facts of life. I know that every girl should know them, but I don't. My mother says she's told me all of it but I know there's more. I don't want to hear it on the street, so what do I do?

D.W.
Amsbury, Mass.

Dear D.W.

If your mother won't tell you, go to a favorite teacher or counselor for all the facts. If you're embarrassed to ask them, there are some very informative books in the library.

NOT INTERESTED

Dear Miss Cowan:

I am in the 7th grade, and I take the bus every morning with my girlfriend. She is real "hip" with boys, and all during the bus ride she talks about her boyfriends. I sit there listening disinterestedly, but she thinks I am interested. How can I ask her to stop telling me about her boyfriends without hurting her feelings?

K.R.
Port Washington, N.Y.

Dear K.R.

Steer the topic of conversation around to a different subject. Get her to talk about herself instead. Something tells me she'll love that.

FICKLE FAT

Dear Miss Cowan:

I'm 15 years old and met this boy at a resort last year. He has sent me letters and even some gifts. He's a wonderful boy and I wouldn't hurt him for anything, but I've gained a lot of weight. He calls me quite often, always asking me to see him at this resort. I want to write and see him, but I don't want to hurt him.

D.L.
Middlesex, N.J.

Dear D.L.

Write the boy, but put off seeing him until you've gone on a diet. Tell him you've gained a little weight, but make a joke out of it. I'm sure he won't really mind, but don't put off seeing him too long if you really like him.

NO RAIDERS

Dear Miss Cowan:

My mother won't let me go out with any of my friends. Recently it was announced that Paul Revere and the Raiders were appearing at a town close to where I live. My best friend said that her father would take us to see them. When I told my mother, she said no. Not that she has anything against the Radiers, it's just that she doesn't like any group at all.

B.R.
Sutherlin, Va.

Dear B.R.

Is there any one of your friends whom your mother likes more than any other? If so, have her mother talk to your mother, and try to convince her to let you go out with your friends to supervised activities. Gradually, maybe going to concerts will also be acceptable. Talk to one of your teachers or counselors at school, or even your minister, and perhaps they can help convince your mother, too.

PARENTAL PROBLEMS

Dear Miss Cowan:

I am 15 and my parents don't understand or trust me. They used to trust me, but then I did something to lose their trust — I sneaked out to see my boyfriend when they had forbidden me to date him. Then they caught me and put me on restriction and won't let me out of the house. I can't even see my girlfriends. How can I make them trust me again.

J.L.
Hawthorne, Calif.

Dear J.L.

Since you understand why your parents have lost their trust in you, you will understand that it takes only a minute to lose trust, but much longer to regain it. Don't complain or be hostile toward your parents in any way, do just what they tell you to and try to constantly be on your good behavior. Only by these means can you hope to win back your parents' trust.

GIRLS CHOICE

Dear Miss Cowan:

I like a boy and he likes me, but he seems to like another girl, too. My friends said to ask him which of us he prefers, but I'm not sure I should. What do you think?

S.H.
Flint, Mich.

Dear S.H.

Don't ask him who he prefers, or it will be the other girl. No boy likes to be pressured and by asking him, that's exactly what you will be doing. Just play it cool, be warm and friendly, and don't act jealous.

SHY MUSIC-LOVER

Dear Miss Cowan:

I like a boy from a local group. I wrote to him once and he called me up. Ever since then I've been in love with him. One day during vacation or on a week-end I would like to visit him, but one thing is wrong — I'm shy. I know I'll break down if I meet him. Could you please tell me what I could do to overcome my shyness? I want to be able to carry on a conversation.

J.L.W.
City Withheld

Dear J.L.W.

When you meet him, get him to talk about music and himself, and only ask leading questions. That way he will carry the conversation and you will become more relaxed. I'm sure that when you've relaxed your guard you will be able to talk as you do with your other friends.

8 FOR 9

Dear Miss Cowan:

I like a ninth grader who is popular, good-looking and well dressed. But he's stuck up and shy with girls! My friends try to help me get his attention, but I only get the attention of his rude, ill-mannered friend, who always points to me and laughs. I really like this boy, but he's embarrassed to have an eighth grader like him. How can I get him to change?

C.B.
Yokohama, Japan

Dear C.B.

Don't try and force your attention on this boy, especially if his friend is around. It becomes a joke when a boy thinks a girl likes him, and you will never get him in that case. Play it cool from now on but try finding out his interests and join in any groups he might be interested in. Then be nice to his friend, but don't make it obvious in any way you like the original boy. One year's difference isn't very much.

WRONG SIDE OF TRACKS

Dear Miss Cowan:

In our county there's a small town which my mother says is bad and I agree. One of my best friends is from there, however, and my mom thinks she's really a great kid, so I don't understand why my mother is against everyone else who is from there.

I like this boy who is from this other town, and I want to ask him to a picnic our church is having. My mom doesn't know him, but she won't let me ask him. He's not bad, he doesn't smoke, drink or swear. What can I do to prove to mom that he's not as bad as the rest of his family? I can't go on for the rest of my life dating on my mom's rumors.

G.B.L.Y.
Warren, Pa.

Dear G.B.L.Y.

No, you can't go for the rest of your life dating on your mom's rumors, but right now she's the boss. And remember, mothers are often right in cases like this. If this boy is really not as bad as the rest of his family, try inviting him over to meet your mom, and have her get to know him. After she's met him she might change her mind, and let you go out with him.

CAN'T TAKE A HINT

Dear Miss Cowan:

I'm in love with a girl. We're both 15 and her parents are very strict about whom she may date. I've tried everything including telling her "I love you" right to her face, but she plays stupid and tries to match me with one of her friends. What should I do, quit or keep trying?

C.B.
Flushing, N.Y.

Dear C.B.

It seems to me it's not the girl who's not taking the hint so much as you who are not. If you've told her you love her, and all she can do is try to fix you up with someone else, forget her.

SADDLED WITH SHOES

I have a problem, in that I have to wear special saddle shoes because of my feet. I hate them but my mother won't let me wear any other kind. What should I do? No boys will date me because of this.

S.B.
Elmhurst, Ill.

Dear S.B.

If your mother won't listen to you, try talking to your doctor. They can be pretty understanding.

SPLIT DECISION

Dear Miss Cowan:

I like this boy at school, but I'm not the only one. There are twenty million others who like him too. Everyone knew that I liked him and told him so. He's very shy and never gives an answer to anything. He sits beside me in a class and always talks to me, but only in a few short words.

Well, along came a girl who was my friend, but not a very good friend. She fell for him like a brick in water and has been chasing after him like a maniac. Last week the three of us were at a dance and the boy came up to me and said, "Would you — ," but that's as far as he got because the girl came running up and said, "I want you to dance with me." He danced with her. I like him so much and I know he'd like me if she weren't in the way. She's even gone as far as making up lies to keep me from getting invited to parties where he and I might have a chance to end up together. I try to forget him, but it never works. The more I like him, the more she chases him and usually gets him.

D.H.
Aurora, Colo.

Dear D.H.

It's pretty obvious that he likes you and that he's afraid of her. She is the type of girl who, if she doesn't get her way, will make a scene and he doesn't seem to be the type of guy that digs scenes — bad ones.

Let her keep pushing him and you keep on being very nice to him. Let him know that you like him and understand what he is going through with her. If she pushes him the way she has been so far — she'll lose him. No guy likes to be told what to do and eventually he will get sick of it and come running to you.

GIRLS PREFER . . .

Dear Miss Cowan:

Do girls like talented, cute boys or the regular classmate-type boy?

T.K.
Long Island, N.Y.

Dear T.K.

Only younger and more immature girls go for the boys that are already popular for one reason or another (athlete, class officer, etc.) But in the long-run it's the boy with the best personality and average looks that gets the best girls.

JUST ASK

Dear Miss Cowan:

How can I find out if a certain girl likes me?

P.P.
Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear P.P.

Ask her out.

CLOSE SHAVE

Dear Miss Cowan:

My girlfriend and I are mad at each other because she can shave her legs and I can't. My mother says girls shouldn't shave until they are 16, and that's an entire year! What should I do?

N.C.
San Antonio, Texas

Dear N.C.

That's a pretty silly reason for you and your girlfriend to be mad at each other. As for shaving, hold off as long as possible, because it's annoying once you've started. However if your legs are too unsightly now, then you're not too young.

BOYFRIEND STEALER

Dear Miss Cowan:

My problem is my girlfriend. Whenever I like a boy she flirts with him and tries to make him like her. Should I let her go on doing this or should I take revenge?

L.B.
Omaha, Neb.

Dear L.B.

Talk to your girlfriend about it, but she doesn't sound like a true friend to me. Drop her if she doesn't stop this.

STAND STILL

Dear Miss Cowan:

I like this boy who lives up the block from me. It seems like he's waiting for me at the bus stop and he always takes the seat across from me on the bus. He always walks near me or seems to follow me. What should I do?

D.K.
Milwaukee, Wis.

Dear D.K.

Stand still and let him catch you.

OLD FLAME

My girlfriend's sister is getting married soon, and I am invited to the reception. We have to bring dates, and the boy I want to ask is the one with whom I went steady during the summer. Everyone says I should ask him, but I need your advice as to whether I should or shouldn't.

T.B.
Toledo, Ohio

Dear T.B.

If you still like him, it all depends on how he feels about you as to whether to ask him or not. If he does still like you there's no reason not to ask him. But in that case why did you break up?

DISTANT STEADY

Dear Miss Cowan:

My problem concerns the boy I'm going steady with. You see, I'm 16 and I would like to have some fun once in a while, but my steady is in the service and will not be out for another year. I like him very much, I might even love him. How can I make him understand that another boy's company once in awhile will take some of my loneliness away until he comes back?

T.D.
Fort Kent, Me.

Write to him and tell him that you love him and would like to see him happy, but that love is a two way deal. If he loves you — he should want to see you happy too. Then tell him that you would like to date once in awhile; stress that it will not be often and that you doubt very seriously that you will be dating any boy more than once.

If you don't feel that he will approve, then go ahead and date anyway — being in the service (if he's in the U.S.) he's probably dating, so why shouldn't you!

If he is dating, he certainly won't be telling you about it, so don't tell him. The old saying is, "What you don't know won't hurt you." Just make sure that any dates you have are open and aboveboard so that no one can be in a position to tell lies and so that you will never be in a position where you will have to lie about what was done, if he should find out about it. In other words . . . double date and don't date any one guy too often . . . but do have fun. After all, you are 16 and should participate in all school activities (including dances, ball games, etc.) and other fun things.

Another thing to think of is this: if you do date other guys, you will be able to find out if your steady is the one you really want. It's always good to get a little fun and variety in your life.

THEY DON'T TAKE

Dear Miss Cowan:

I am a 15-year-old boy with average looks. I am always well-groomed, but girls don't take to me. When I go to a dance, they all turn me down, even though I'm a very good dancer. And every time a friend introduces me to a girl, she just just walks away. I don't smoke or drink, I'm not shy and I'm not a hood. I go out for sports, have several hobbies, write songs, and go to dances, games, roller rinks, etc. What should I do to make girls take to me?

T.J.C. III
Dunkirk, N.Y.

Dear T.J.C. III

It sounds as if you have tried just about everything. Talk to some of your boyfriends, and see if they can't give you a hint as to what you're possibly doing wrong. But remember, sometimes even your best friends won't tell you . . .

FIRST KISS

Dear Miss Cowan:

I am going to a school dance with the boy who used to date my best friend, and he wants to double with her and her new boyfriend. I don't really want to because of two main problems. First, I have never kissed a guy, and if I have to do it in the presence of my friend, I'd feel clumsy and embarrassed. I'm also sort of scared. Secondly, my friend still likes him, and I will feel awkward being with him in front of her. So actually the main questions are, should I double with this girl? Does the boy have to walk you to the door after the date? And how can I cure my "kissing-fright?"

Needs Help Fast
San Francisco, Calif.

Dear Needs Help Fast

If the boys want to double, it will be even more awkward trying to ask them not to. Secondly, a boy, if he has any manners at all, will walk you to your door after a date. Lastly, the question about the kiss. This is a very important question, and there's no sure-fire way to answer it. Try not thinking about whether he's going to kiss you or not. First it could spoil the evening, and then it might make you even more self-conscious. Remember, he may not even try to kiss you, because he may feel just as awkward in front of his friends as you do. But if he does, just relax; it will be very quick.

What's Been Happening with GENE CLARK

GENE CLARK . . . writing more songs . . . furnishing his new home . . . shooting his bow and arrows (pretending to be Robin Hood) . . . recording a new album . . . turtle neck sweaters . . . driving his Burgundy Gerrari (abbreviation meaning Gene's Ferrari) — wonder where Michael got the idea to paint his car Burgundy . . . repainted MG (someone wrote nasty things all over it in orange paint).

Above: The Present. Gene Clark at his recording session.

Is Gene Clark returning to the Byrds? This is a question that's been asked since March of 1966, when Gene left the group. Rumors are frequently heard in Hollywood on this subject. But what is the real truth? Will Gene return?

"I have thoughts of returning to the Byrds," he admits.

They were his pals (and still are), and he no doubt misses their companionship and the good times they shared. But their music interests have changed, or I should say, advanced and gone their separate ways.

Gene is a creative, separate individual, as are all four of the Byrds. Each one of these five people have their own ideas and future plans. Just like every person does.

"I may perform with the Byrds again, but I seriously doubt if I would return to the group and stay," Gene told me. He has begun on his own, as a solo singer, and it would be almost impossible for him to forget his new work.

Can someone tell me why people say the Byrds used to be good? Yes . . . they were good. Their style was a bit different and so was their sound. But they're good now, too! If you don't think so, listen to their newest album. Chris Hillman did a fine job of singing (and writing songs). That was something new to him, and he did a great job.

JimMcGuinn and David Crosby wrote and sang some very interesting new songs. They got some groovy new effects, too. And if you have listened hard, you can hear how much progress Michael Clarke has made on the drums. (But don't tell him I said so.)

I think they've been doing fine, creative work that's a little bit new and different for them. This is the first album they've done without Gene, and it was done well.

Gene went on to say: "It's been hard for both of us (meaning himself and the Byrds) since I left." And it has. But he did what he felt was right. He has his reasons.

If he plays with the Byrds again, groovy. That will bring us back into the past for a short time. But then we'll return to the present.

By the way, have you heard Gene's first album (with the Gosdin Brothers)? It's out of sight! I consider it a beautiful collection of music, Gene Clark style. He has a great style of his own that shows a fine, sensitive, creative mind behind it.

Both Gene and the Byrds are still singing, writing songs, performing and recording them for us. I don't know how the rest of you feel, but I'm proud of them for their efforts. And I like what they've done, together and separately.

I think we all should have an open-minded attitude toward Gene and the Byrds, and accept the decisions they have every right to make. None of us should live in the past, but it's hard. (Yeah!) But who knows what's in store for all of us in the future?

A Clark & Byrd Bird From TS

and THE BYRDS

BYRD THINGIES

After six months of writing, recording and finally resting, the Byrds began making personal appearances again. Starting in March, after a three week European tour, they played in various California cities (including San Francisco). They then performed in New York, Chicago and Puerto Rico. They also played Los Angeles Clubs, including the Whisky-A-Go-Go.

At the end of May, all four of the Byrds trouped down to Columbia recording studios and recorded their new single (written by David Crosby) and their fifth album.

For the six months they did not make personal appearances, each Byrd became involved in his own interests and persued them. Some of these pursuits are mentioned in the photo captions on these two pages.

DAVID CROSBY . . . new home (in one of the canyons) . . . hats (no more capes). . . groovy cooking . . . song writing . . . trips to Mexico . . . watching Hugh Masekela at the Whisky . . . sinister mustache

MICHAEL CLARKE . . . session work (also on Gene Clark's album) . . . trips to Big Sur . . . a new and bigger home . . . a funky bat (really down home) . . . groovy shades . . . blue jeans (not faded) . . . lizards (every try to catch one?) . . . five crackers . . . Porsche painted (a beautiful Burgundy).

CHRIS HILLMAN . . . '65 red Porsche (he traded in his camper) . . . a new home (he lost everything in the fire that destroyed his last one) . . . hair cut (he's letting it go natural) . . . song writing . . . faded blue jeans . . . record production (for the Gosdin Brothers) . . . session work (on Gene Clark's album).

JIM McGUINN . . . Roger (he changed his name, legally) . . . wife and son (he married and became a father) . . . pumpkin colored Porsche . . . hair cut . . . new beard.

Girls Wanted

For Modeling Training

Almost every day producers, directors and officials of motion picture studios, television networks, record companies and advertising agencies ask the editors of Teen Screen how they can find new faces — teen girls across the nation who can work as models and actresses.

We investigated this problem and discovered that the need to find the girls not only existed but that there are thousands of girls who want to know how to become models and actresses.

So, Teen Screen originated the Models Workshop to help both girls who want to become models and actresses and are interested in personal development and also to help producers, directors, casting agents, and others to find those new faces they are looking for.

Model Workshops are located in many cities across the U.S. Every girl who joins the Teen Screen Models Workshop will be photographed at the beginning and end of the course and her picture and description will be made available to motion picture studios, TV producers, advertising agencies, producers, directors, casting directors, etc.

The time for you to join is now! Write for information immediately. Don't be left out!

TS Models meet celebrities like Sonny and Cher

PIC OF THE MONTH

The new pictures, of special interest to teens, that are coming to your neighborhood theater soon.

THE BIG MOUTH (Columbia)

Jerry Lewis is an eccentric who one day hooks a frogman while fishing. The frogman looks just like Jerry, but he is a crook trying to steal diamonds from another gang of crooks. The frogman then makes the uncomprehending Jerry his accomplice, and Jerry dons a serious series of weird disguises to help him hide from the gang.

After the frogman is killed, Jerry finds himself in real trouble as the only man who knows the whereabouts of the diamonds — only he doesn't know, either!

Comment: The picture's ending contains one of the wildest chase scenes in motion picture history, and climaxes another hilarious Lewis effort.

THE NAKED RUNNER (Warner Bros.)

Frank Sinatra is an American widower who designs furniture in England, and is making plans to take his 14-year-old son along on a business trip behind the Iron Curtain. Suddenly he gets a call from old wartime buddy Peter Vaughn urgently asking him to come and see him. Sinatra discovers that Vaughn is still working for British Intelligence, and needs Sinatra to deliver a message while he is behind the Iron Curtain, in Leipzig, E. Germany.

Once in Leipzig, Sinatra's son is kidnapped and held as a hostage to insure Sinatra's not completing his original mission, and to force him to assassinate a man in Copenhagen for the E. Germans.

Sinatra then contacts London to help him, but Derren Nesbitt, the man holding his son hostage, finds out, and Sinatra vows revenge for what he knows must be the death of his son.

Nesbitt's death obsesses Sinatra, and with the help of pretty agent Toby Robins ambushes what he thinks is Nesbitt's car and shoots the occupant. Nesbitt then drives up in another car.

What subsequently happens is stark drama, and to divulge the outcome would be criminal.

Comment: An extremely compelling drama that will keep you on the edge of your seat throughout.

DON'T MAKE WAVES (M-G-M)

Tourist Tony Curtis is discovering the Pacific Ocean at Malibu, Calif., when the VW containing all his possessions goes up in flames after tangling with an Imperial driven by Claudia Cardinale. Feeling contrite, she puts him up on the couch in her apartment until her "patron" Robert Webber arrives and throws him out. Tony ends up sleeping on the beach.

In the morning he decides to take a swim and is "run over" by Sharon Tate on her surfboard. After she gives him mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, he becomes a changed man—all he wants is to acquire "things" and to live at Malibu.

Tony then blackmails his way into a salesman's job, and is himself talked into buying a house and car he can't afford.

There is collusion and confusion as love triangles and misunderstandings abound, and Tony gets into one wild scrape after another.

Comment: A very funny picture with Tony playing the part of innocent-con man that he does so well. An enjoyable movie to see.

TWO FOR THE ROAD (20th Century Fox)

This picture is told in a series of flashbacks as Albert Finney and Audrey Hepburn motor through England on the way to catch the ferry for France.

As they travel, they are reminded about similar trips they've made in the course of their lives.

Finney can never find his passport, even when it is in the most obvious place, and Audrey is the only one who can ever find it. In fact, that was how they met — she found his "missing" passport while each was on a hiking trip across the continent. They subsequently fall in love and are married, but as Finney becomes more famous as an architect, he and Audrey find various strains put upon their marriage.

Finally we are led back to the present, as Finney searches for his passport, and Audrey finds it, as always.

Comment: An endearing story, with good insight into a 12-year-old marriage. Finney and Miss Hepburn are excellent, as always, and their acting along with the beautiful scenery makes this an entertaining film.

SWAMPED PEN PAL

My picture was in the December '66 issue of TS. I have received over 3000 letters and would like to thank everyone who wrote me. I'd also like to thank TS for printing my name.

An awful lot of the letters got misplaced while I was home on leave, so if you could possibly put my address in your column again, maybe the girls who didn't receive an answer will give me another chance by writing again.

TS PEOPLE

Just want to say that TS isn't just for teens. I'm 22 and enjoy it as much as I did when I was a teenager.

. . . I must say that TS is the greatest mag out today or ever. You're the only one that has anything and everything, which makes it the gear of the bunch.

If you print this letter, please ask other Beatle fans to write me. I'm sixteen.

DEFENDING TS

Dear Unsigned From St. Petersburg:

You wrote in several issues ago, complaining about TS. I believe that everyone is entitled to their own opinions. You've had your say, now here goes mine.

In my eyes — and in the eyes of many — TS is really great. The writing is clever, interesting, fun and true. (As true as they can possibly make it, which is more than I can say for quite a few other mags.) I love the pictures. Only one other magazine I've ever seen has had pictures even half as good as Teen Screen, and that was an English magazine.

But, even more important than that, the people on TS are the greatest bunch ever. I've never met them, but I've talked with them. They're friendly and understanding, especially JM.

I could go on but I won't All I can say is if someone doesn't read TS, they're really hurting themselves.

URGENT PLEA

Is there any TS reader (girl) who lives in New Jersey and is truly interested in forming a group? I'm a drummer (well, almost) but I don't think I'd enjoy doing a drum solo. If you're between 13 and 16 and play an instrument or are willing to learn somehow, OR if you can sing, please write quickly.

MONKEE LOVERS WANTED

We would like to start a club for true Monkee lovers. We're not bragging, but we feel we know a lot about the Monkees and would like to communicate with people who really like them. We'd like to find out more about them and tell others things they might want to know. We'll answer all letters we receive.

MARRIED RAIDERS

I'm writing about something I read in another magazine. I like TS and I like the articles you write, especially because they seem so truthful. Therefore, I think you'll print the truth about this.

I read that Smitty and Harpo of Revere's Raiders are married. It wasn't in one of those phoney-yuk magazines so I thought they had just goofed. But again, in their latest issue, they said they'd got so many letters accusing them of lying. But they said it definitely was the truth.

Now, I wasn't upset because they were married, but because they didn't tell it to the kids. Maybe they felt the fans would desert them, but they were wrong. I've lost more respect for them for not telling, rather than if they had. That stands for any star who is married and is keeping it a secret. Look at Paul Revere. He's married with two sweet kids, and he's not keeping it a secret. And I know the kids think this is really great.

Well, I just want to say, we still think the Raiders are great and we wouldn't desert them for anything. But please tell stars who are keeping their marriages secret that it's not fair to their fans. It's like calling us stupid and unable to understand, and that's not true. Perhaps you feel the same way. Thanks for listening.

Lynda Johnson
St. Paul, Minn.

It is true that ex-Raiders Mike (Smitty) Smith and Jim (Harpo) Valley are married and have been for some time. But you'll be happy to hear that none of the new Raiders are married. For more about them, see page 40 of this issue.—JM

STAR MEMORIES

Three years ago I did not care for your magazine because it seemed like all the rest — designed to entice the readers into anger. But since then you have improved tremendously. The articles you've been printing for the last two years show that you really are concerned and do care for the teens of today.

I, for one, will never forget that article you printed a year ago on George Harrison entitled: "From A Girl Who Loved And Lost A Star." It just broke me into tears because that was exactly how I felt when Frankie Avalon got married in 1963. The girl who wrote that was so well able to convey my feelings into words. Time heals all wounds so I have long gotten over my crush on F.A. But I assure you that it really comforts the heartbroken teen to know that there are others in the same position.

In every issue you carry such wonderful articles that I'm sure no one can help but love your mag. Keep up the great work.

NASHVILLE SCENE

I live in Nashville, which is supposed to be the home of country music. Well, I personally think country music stinks and everyone else I know here has the same opinion of it.

WSIX-TV, our ABC station in Nashville, recently discontinued "American Bandstand." All through the college football season, the games were on in its place. After football was over, Bandstand was on for 3 or 4 weeks and then was dropped for some "hillbilly" country music show.

The mass of Nashville does not like this hillbilly music. I have found it is mostly the small hick towns surrounding Nashville. I have written to the program director of the station but to no avail. Please tell me how to go about getting 'Bandstand" back on the air.

I would also like to let the rest of the country know that we in Nashville are not all "hillbillies."

Teenagers in other parts of the country have succeeded in having program re-scheduled by sending mail. Like, tons of it! Write to the program director again, and ask everyone you know to do the same. I've printed your full address so that other TS readers who want to help can write you and/or the station in question.—JM

BEATLE ARTICLE

I was going to send one of those kooky "thank you" cards for JM's fine articles on the Beatles, but there weren't any that satisfied me. There are certain things that cannot be expressed by cards or by words. One of these is gratefulness. Another is love.

I'll always remember a left-handed guitar player with big, innocent eyes would could just wave his hand and cause the wildest ovation a performer can receive.

I wonder if anyone else will get to the top like they have. And I wonder if anyone will ever give as much as they have given.

Thank you; I'm glad I'm not alone in this situation; that there are still "soft" people who'll feel tears at the memory of the Beatles.

Thank you so very much and may God bless you all at TS.

. . . Yesterday I picked up TS and practically flipped for the color photo of Davy Jones. But the thing that I admired most was your article on "Why The Beatles Stopped Performing." It was great! Because I feel the same way you do, and I cry every time I remember Paul singing "Yesterday."

I would love to meet JM someday and tell her she's the coolest 26-year-old person. She writes what's in her heart, which I could hug her for.

. . . JM's article made me understand.

I would like to quote Michael Bozos in saying "Don't just say Beatles Forever, mean it!"

Rena Landstrom

. . . I'd like to commend you on the article that Janey Milstead wrote—"Why The Beatles Stopped Performing." It was fantastic, and moved me greatly.

I especially liked her last line—if other people think we're soft, it's just too damn bad.

SUNSET STRIP

Thanks again for the great article on the so-called Sunset Strip Riots. You cleared up this question!

Lynette Terry

. . . I would like to thank you for printing what really happened on the Sunset Strip. I've written a book about a girl who was on the Strip when this all was supposed to have happened but I see I was completely wrong, and I'm planning to re-write it.

I sure would appreciate it if any teens who were on the Strip would write me more details and send newspaper clippings.

ROLLING STONED

I've been reading with interest the letters in your column from girls who are in "too deep" (meaning their minds are blown over a particular singing idol). Well, I'm no different. I'm nutty (to put it mildly) over Mick, Bill, Brian, Keith and Charlie.

I'd love to start such a club for their most avid fans — the ones who live, breathe, talk and think STONES.

I have lot of surprises and plans for the club, so all you Stones-Maniacs write me and we'll be able to work our problem out together.

ENGLAND SWINGS

I just finished reading Kathy Hageman's letter in TS. (Ed. Note —Kathy disagreed with an anti-British letter printed previously.) Though I was pleased that she got some of her facts right, she is not entirely correct. I can speak with authority because I just returned from three raving years in England and, altogether, have spent eight years of my life in that groovy country.

According to popular belief, it rains all the time there — AND IT DOES! All the time means about three times a week, depending on the weather conditions. It may rain as often as three times a day for as long as a week!!

I'll have to agree with Kathy in that the people are some of the friendliest I have ever met. I still consider England as my home even though I am an American. I love my country, too, but what I would really love to have is dual citizenship.

There are four distinct types of teens there, and contrary to Kathy, you are either a Mod, Rocker, Greaser or a Trog. The real Mod look for boys does NOT constitute having hair down to your shoulders! The Mod hairdo is shorter than that, though you can still tell the boys from the girls. The girls' hair is either very long or very short if you are a Mod.

As for the few boys she saw there with long hair and bell-bottom pants, I would like to remind her that styles change quite rapidly and the "in" look at the moment is (would you believe) the Western look. With Bobby capes, of course! Several boutiques over there are selling loads of Western clothes and even saddles. I knew a boy who had a saddle on the seat of his scooter!

MONKEE MAD

I'm a Monkee-fan as are many other teens, and I try to get every magazine that contains pix and articles about them. I want to thank you for printing that out-a-site pic of them. Also the article.

The Monkees came to Hawaii for their premiere performance, and believe me, it was something to remember. They are the warmest, friendliest, and funniest guys ever.

I'll continue to keep track of TS in hopes that there will be many, many more articles on the fab four. Also, would you print something about the Young Rascals. I can't seem to find much on them.

BEATLES VS MONKEES

My thanks to TS for not printing any of this "Beatles VS Monkees" nonsense. I agree with JM that there is no big rivalry between the two groups, but I do think there's a lot of it between some of their respective fans.

This is very silly. Both groups are at the top, and there's no reason why we can't like both. If you only like one, you can put a stop to the silliness by not making a big deal out of not liking the other. If you like the Monkees, you can say something good about them without saying something bad about the Beatles, and vice versa. Also, the Monkee fans should try to realize that we Beatle fans don't mean anything bad when we say "we had the real thing." This doesn't mean we consider the Monkees a copy of the Beatles. Anyway, I don't. But I do see some of the Beatles in the Monkees, the same way I see some of them in all the groups that have happened since they started the whole thing.

Let's stop all this feud bit. The Beatles and the Monkees are friends. Their fans should be the same.

MONKEE SURVEY

I would like to sponsor a poll to find out which of the Monkees is the most popular. Everyone please send me your vote and I'll let TS know the results as soon as possible.

ALL ABOUT KEITH

I owe TS a great big "kiss." Thanks very, very much for the article on Keith. I have bought almost every teen mag trying to gain some info on him. You are the first mag to print a decent pic and more than a paragraph on him.

I have seen him in person and he's just about the grooviest guy around.

SIMPLY SUPER

Your magazine is groovy. Just simply super. The April issue was great! More fab pictures, especially of Mark Lindsay, Phil Volk, Keith Allison and the Monkees.
